

CONTENTS JEASA 5.1

Mirko Jurak, 1935-2014. An Obituary Adi Wimmer
(2-3)

Articles

1. “Modern in Every Respect”: The 1914 Conference of the British Association for the Advancement of Science John Scheckter
(4-20)

2. Arthur When, Australian World War I Hero, and Erich Maria Remarque’s Im Westen nichts Neues: All Quiet on the Western Front John Ramsland
(21-35)

3. ‘Are There any Poor People Here?’: Immigrants, Aborigines, and Multicultural Perceptions Mitchell Rolls
(36-44)

4. Worlding the island-continent: the spatial-cultural logics of interwar historical fiction Adam Gall
(45-59)

5. The Swinging Stirrup Iron: Murder Most Pastoral in Recent Queensland Fiction Geoff Rodoreda
(60-75)

6. Reconciling Historical F(r)iction: Exploring the Unsettling Edges of Australianness in David Malouf’s Remembering Babylon Cornelis Martin Renes
(76-89)

7. Nation, Empire and Gender: Two Genteel English Women Writing about Australia and Hungary in the Mid-Nineteenth Century Ildiko Domotor
(90-103)

8. Is Burchett a traitor to Australian journalism? A cultural historiographical approach to why this may not matter Josie Vine
(104-121)

Reviews

Paul Eggert. Biography of a Book: Henry Lawson’s While the Billy Boils.
Paul Eggert, ed. Henry Lawson: While the Billy Boils. The Original Newspaper Versions. Annalisa Pes
(122-125)

Alexis Wright. The Swan. Cornelis Martin Renes
(126-128)