White is not a colour
It is an exclusive institution with a very small door,
Black is not a shade
It is when you suddenly find
You cannot get your foot in.

Romaine Moreton is a writer of poetry and prose. She holds a PhD in philosophy from the University of Western Sydney. Romaine has published two anthologies of her poetry, The Callused Stick of Wanting (1996) and Post Me to the Prime Minister (2004). She has also written scripts for the films Redreaming the Dark and Cherish.
